The "Manus" Milking Machines,

Awarded FIVE FIRST PRIZES,

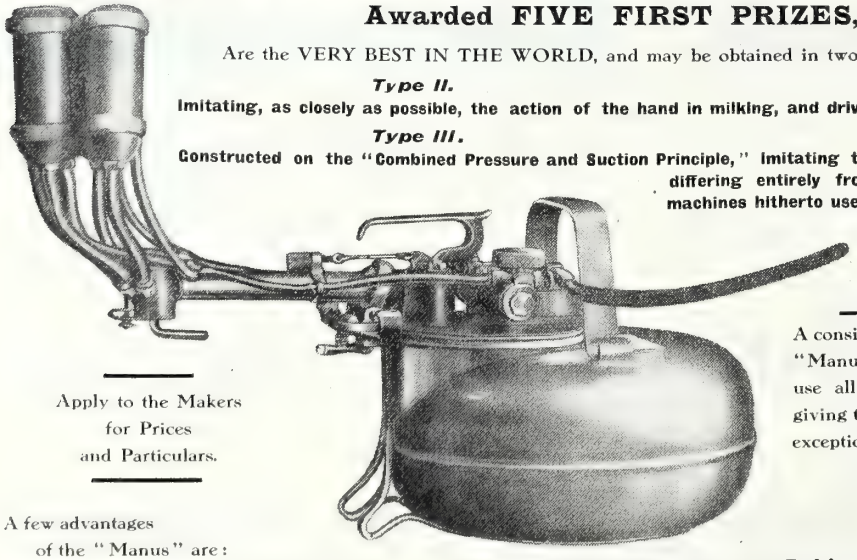
Are the VERY BEST IN THE WORLD, and may be obtained in two different types:

Type II.

Imitating, as closely as possible, the action of the hand in milking, and driven by compressed air.

Type III.

Constructed on the "Combined Pressure and Suction Principle," imitating the sucking of a calf; differing entirely from all other vacuum-machines hitherto used.



Apply to the Makers for Prices and Particulars.

"A considerable number of "Manus" machines are in use all over the World, giving their users, without exception, entire satisfaction."

A few advantages of the "Manus" are:

Simple and Strong Construction. No Complicated Parts. No Long Rubber Tubing or Pipes difficult to get at. Highest Milking Capacity. Easiest possible to tend and handle. Cost of Installation and Upkeep lowest possible.

SWITZERLAND

SWITZERLAND is a Republic and entirely an inland country. The area is 15,992 square miles. The population in December, 1911, was 3,788,900.

Of the various branches of agriculture the cheese industry has undoubtedly the greatest importance for Switzerland, as on it depend the prosperity of the milk industry, the rearing of milk cows and the value of pasture land.

INDUSTRIES.—Foremost among these stands the textile industry, cotton, embroidery, silk, watch making, machinery, woollen, chocolate &c.

The textile industries have their chief centres in Zurich, Basle, Glarus and St. Gallen.

Next to the textile industry, that of watch-making is the most important in Switzerland. Its chief centres are Chaux de Fonds, Bienne and Geneva; there are also important branches in the cantons of Neuchatel, Berne and Vaud. In consequence of the rapid development of watch manufacturing in the United States, together with the heavy duties levied there, that country, formerly the principal market for the Geneva watch trade, is now to a great extent closed.

There is a great difference in the value of the production as compared with the number of watches produced in some cantons and with others on account of the quality of the watches produced. Those manufactured in Geneva and Chaux de Fonds and Locle, for example, are mostly gold watches with complicated movements, while those of the Jura Bernois, Bienne, Soleure and Fleurier are mostly silver, oxidized steel and nickel of a cheaper description.

Among the metal industries the manufacture of machinery ranks next in importance to watch-making, having its chief centres in Zurich and Winterthur.

The output of the salt mines at Rheinfelden and Bex is sufficient to supply the needs of the country.

NOTE.—The manufacture and sale of the famous Swiss Absinthe has been prohibited since 1910.

The Swiss Minister in London is M. Gaston Carlin, 3 Portland place W

The British Minister at Berne is Evelyn Mountstuart Grant Duff esq. C.M.G.

Consular business in London is attended to at 3 Portland place W (office of the Legation).

Consul—Liverpool: G. G. Weiss; Antoine Jean Fontannaz (vice).

The Export and Import trade of Switzerland during 1912 amounted to 3,321,345,000 francs.

AARAU, capital of Canton D'ARGOVIE, with 9,000 inhabitants. The manufactures of this canton are various. A well-known industry is the tobacco and cigar manufacture (Menziken and Reinach as centres), and straw plaiting (at Wohlen &c.), for which this canton is famous and takes first rank among its industries. The Canton Aargau is one of the most industrial cantons in Switzerland. Here is a Chamber of Commerce for the canton (Handelskammer des Canton Aargau. Secretary, Dr. Hedinger).

BASLE (BÂLE), the capital of the Canton BASLESTADT; it has a population of 135,160 inhabitants, Dec., 1910. It is the principal gateway and one of the most important commercial and manufacturing towns in Switzerland. It is situated on the Rhine, is the centre of several railways, and is the richest of all the Swiss towns. There are a large number of factories engaged in the manufacture of silk ribbons. Silk ribbons to the value of 42,000,000 francs and spun waste silk to the value of nearly 30,000,000 francs are manufactured here yearly. There are also large chemical factories, especially aniline dyes (exports over 26,000,000 francs yearly) and silk dye works, large breweries, manufactories of electric and other machinery, of paper, tobacco and many other goods.

Here are a Chamber of Commerce (Basler Handels Kammer), Marktgasse, 8, and a Public Inquiry Office for free information as to travelling &c. in Switzerland, Falknerstrasse, 2 I. floor, opposite the General Post-office (add postage).

BERNE (Canton BERNE), population 90,823 (Jan. 1913), is the capital of Switzerland and the seat of the federal government. It is situated on the direct line from Geneva to Zürich and Basel, and from Paris to Milan since the opening of the Loetschberg railway, and is one of the most important points of communication in Switzerland.

Canton Berne has a population of 600,000. The language is partly German and partly French. The manufacture of cheese and condensed milk forms an important source of industry in the canton, the yearly production of cheese amounting to about 12,000 tons. The manufacture of sterilised and condensed milk at Stalden Emmenthal has now become a very important industry, and is much exported.

Here are a Board of Trade (Kantonale Bernische Handels u. Gewerbekammer; Chambre Cantonale Bernoise du Commerce et de l'Industrie; secretary, Dr. Alphonse Haas, Berne, Kirchgasse, 2), and a free Inquiry Office, Bahnhofplatz.

Blumer & Biedermann (cotton spinners & fancy weavers)

FRIBOURG (Canton FRIBOURG) is the capital of the canton of the same name, and has a population of 20,020 inhabitants (Dec. 1910). It is noted for its manufacture of the famous Gruyère cheese, chocolate and condensed milk, as well as for straw plaits, tobacco and cigar factories at Payerne. This canton lies in the west of Switzerland. The language mostly spoken is French. German is spoken only in that part adjoining Canton Berne. The canton numbers 135,000 inhabitants. Agriculture and the rearing of cattle is carried on, with large markets at Bulle. Here is a Chamber of Commerce and Free Enquiry Office, rue de Romont, 35; also an important technical school of various branches.

NEUCHATEL, capital of the canton of the same name. Population 24,000. It is situated on the direct line between Paris and Berne, viâ Pontarlier. It has enjoyed the highest reputation for its schools (private and public) for many years past; also for its university.

This canton lies in the west of Switzerland, and, although small, it is one of the most important industrial cantons of the country. There are about one million watches manufactured every year and exported to all countries. It also produces much esteemed wines, still and sparkling Swiss champagne. The language of the Canton is French only, and the climate is very mild.

Here is a Free Inquiry Office and the Chambre Suisse de l'Horlogerie et des Industries annexes—secretary, Fritz Huguenin.

CONSTANTINOPLE, the capital of the Turkish empire, is a city of about 1,000,000 inhabitants, beautifully situated between the Black Sea and the Sea of Marmora, on the European shore of the Bosphorus. The harbour, very safe and commodious and formed by a deep gulf named the Golden Horn, divides the town into two parts, communication being established by means of a bridge, which is opened daily at midnight, to let the vessels pass.

Constantinople is divided into three parts, viz.: Stamboul, Galata and Péra.

The chief articles shipped at this port and in the district are mohair, grain, tobacco, opium, carpets, gums, wool, skins, chrome ore, linseed, canary seed, flax, barley and oats.

A considerable quantity of opium is exported to the United States of America, and the Government of the Netherlands effects yearly purchases of the finest opium procurable for exportation to the Dutch colonies.

Here are Austrian, British, French, German, Italian & Russian Post Offices.

GALLIPOLI, on the European side, at the entrance to the Sea of Marmora, has well-sheltered anchorage in 11 and 16 fathoms water. Population, with its five villages, 15,000. Gallipoli is on the route for steamers and sailing vessels crossing the strait on their way to Constantinople, the Black Sea, Sea of Azoff &c. and back to the Mediterranean and the Archipelago. The imports consist of coffee, petroleum, pointes de Paris, candles, olives, soap, salt, currants, rum, alcohol, flour, rice, coals, wheat, haricot beans and olive oil; the exports consist of grain, canary seed, goat and sheep skins, cocoons and linseed, wine and cheese and a small quantity of cotton, wool, flour and salted fish.

The products of the province of Gallipoli are grains and seeds of all sorts, and the villages near the town produce also cotton and cheese. The cantons of Charkeui and Myriophyo, on the Sea of Marmora, produce every year from 150,000 to 160,000 hectolitres of wine, which are exported to France, Italy, Trieste and Roumania. The alpiste (canary seed) is sent to England, Italy, France, Germany, Belgium and America. It is estimated that this export reaches 25,000 to 30,000 bags yearly. Gallipoli, with its suburbs, produces 65,000 cwts. of grapes.

Lloyd's Sub-Agent, Stamati Papadopoulo.

ALEPPO.—The capital of the vilayet and province of ALEPPO, in Northern Syria, of which Alexandretta is the port, is of considerable importance. The population of the city of Aleppo is 150,000; of the province, 890,000. It is the entrepôt of trade with Eastern Asia Minor, Kurdistan and Mesopotamia. Considerable native cotton and silk manufactures are produced, and sheep and goat skins are largely exported.

BAGHDAD is situated in Asiatic Turkey, on the banks of the Tigris. The population numbers about 200,000.

Imports in 1911 amounted to £3,166,198.

The imports consist of piece goods, copper, logwood, coffee, pepper, sugar, indigo; also tin, iron, glass, matches, leather and machinery.

The exports in 1912 amounted to £981,220, and consisted of carpets and rugs, grain, wool, dates, mohair, galls, fruits, gum, opium, skins, hides, guts and liquorice root.

Two lines of river steamers take the trade of Baghdad down the Tigris. One of these, the Euphrates and Tigris Steam Navigation Co. Limited (Messrs. Lynch's), carries His Majesty's Indian Mails. The other is called "Adara Naherieh." A large quantity of goods is now brought up from Busreh by native sailing craft (seffinas).

BEYROUT is the principal commercial town of Syria, and the port for Damascus, with a population of about 130,000. It has a port which is capable of containing some 60 steamers and sailing vessels. There are French (Messageries Maritimes), Austrian (Lloyd), Italian (La Maritima Italiana (weekly), (Florio Rubattino) (fortnightly), Russian (Comp. Russe de Navigation à Vapeur and Sté. de Bateaux à Vapeur du Nord), British (Khedivial), Greek (Pantaleon), American and Turkish regular lines, the only subsidised ones being the French, Italian and the Russian. Knott's Prince Line call weekly, the Papayanni, Moss and Westcott-Lawrence lines call occasionally at this port.

The imports consist of Manchester goods, woollen goods, felt, iron, iron bedsteads, dished iron, patent fuel (briquettes), used principally in the silk factories, and by steamers and railway, rice &c. Most of the patent fuel is imported from England; carriages and fancy work from France; lead pipes, zinc, glassware, iron girders from Belgium. The total of imports for 1912 amounted to £1,497,500.

The principal articles of export from Beyrout consist of silk, silk thread, waste silk, silk stuffs, wool, woollen stuffs, barley, apricots (dried), bitumen, cocoons, curiosities, arms, dried fruits, hides and skins, liquorice root and olive oil. The total of exports for 1912 amounted to £525,600.

BUSSORAH (BASRAH); population, 60,000; a Turkish port on the Shatt-el-Arab (which is the name given to the river formed by the junction of the Tigris and Euphrates), about 60 miles from the head of the Persian Gulf, is of considerable importance. Steamers of the British India Steam Navigation Company run weekly, with mails, between Bombay and Basrah, and the Bombay and Persia Steam Navigation Companies' steamers call regularly. From England, Anglo - Algerian S.S. Co. steamers, Messrs. Bucknall's steamships and West Hartlepool S.S. Co. Lim. visit this port frequently. The Hamburg-American line call now here monthly from Germany. From Baghdad, steamers of the Euphrates and Tigris Steam Navigation Company arrive and depart weekly with mails; and Turkish steamers, Idari Nahrieb line (formerly Hamidien line), and those of the Arab S.S. Co. (3 vessels) ply on the river from Bussorah to Baghdad. The exports consist principally of dates, cereals, wool, dried fruit, and liquorice root. Manchester goods, copper, yarns and coal are almost the only imports of any importance from Great Britain, though British India supplies spices, yarns, tea and gunny bags to a considerable value. Sugar comes from Marseilles, Austria, Egypt and Germany, iron from Sweden, and glass, cutlery, enamel ware, crockery and sundries from Austria and Germany. The bulk of the export trade is in the hands of the European firms, while the import business is more largely carried on by native firms. The total imports during 1912 were valued at £2,653,984 and the exports at £3.246,560.

DAMASCUS is the capital of the vilayet of Syria, and an important centre of local trade. The population of the city and rural district is estimated at 350,000, of whom about 310,000 are Mahommedans. Cotton and silk weaving, fancy wood and mother-of-pearl work are the principal industries of the town and district. Agriculture is the sole occupation of the peasantry.

The principal articles of import to Damascus consist of cotton goods (Manchester), petroleum (from Batoum), rice, sugar, woollen cloth, silk and muslin fabrics, fezzes, raw silk, indigo, colonial produce, iron, copper and brass, leather, hardware, drugs, earthenware and glassware. Total value 1911, £925,800.

The chief articles of export from Damascus are grain and flour, also what are known as "articles d'orient." These goods consist of hammered iron and copper work, ornamental brass work, all sorts of wooden articles of furniture inlaid with mother-of-pearl, curtains, divan covers &c. also wool, hemp, apricots, apricot kernels and paste, raisins, skins &c. Total value 1911, £995,500.

HODEIDA.—Situated on the Red Sea coast of Arabia. Population about 60,000. Exports consist of coffee, skins and hides, senna, shark fins, myrrh, dhurra jowari (a kind of millet) and teel seeds (sesame) in large quantities when crops are plentiful. Imports: Rice, grain, flour, glue, dates, sugar, spices, tobacco, piece goods, kerosene oil, iron, hardware, metals, timber, stationery &c. Steamers from India, belonging to the Bombay and Persian Gulf Line, trade with the port, and others from Aden, of Cowasjee Dinshaw & Brothers, bring and take the mail and goods to and from Hodeida. The Russian S.S. Co.'s vessels call here on both the outward voyage to the Persian Gulf and homeward voyage to Odessa. The Khedivial Mail Line from Suez. The Navigazione Generale Italiana (Florio Rubattino Line) has ceased to call at Hodeida since July 1, 1910. Its place is being taken by the Società Nazionale di Servizi Marittimi, comprising ships of the old Rubattino Line. Steamers of the Russian Volunteer Fleet call at Hodeida about once every fortnight on the outward voyage to the Far East and also on the homeward voyage.

IZIMIR, see SMYRNA.

JAFFA is the port of Jerusalem, from which it is 33 miles N.W. and the principal port of Palestine, with a population of about 60,000. It has no harbour or breakwater, but only an open roadstead, often dangerous for ships, especially in winter. There is a railway line between Jaffa and Jerusalem. French (Messageries Maritimes), Austrian Lloyd, Russian, Asia Minor, Khedivial, Italian, German and American regular mail boats call at this port. The steamboats of Knott's Prince line and Ellerman's also call fortnightly at this port during the summer months, and weekly during the orange season.

The imports consist principally of Manchester cotton goods, iron rafters, hardware, colours and varnishes, coffee, rice, sugar, petroleum, fancy goods, wines and spirits, coal, timber, tiles and bricks, salt and flour and tinned provisions. Austria, Germany, Italy and France take the lead in the import trade. Total value of imports 1912, £1,090,019. The exports consist of maize, olive oil, sesame, wool, oranges (mostly to Liverpool), colocynth, hides, beans, lupines, bones, water-melons, wines and spirits, chiefly shipped to Great Britain, and of olive oil, soap, of which a considerable quantity is exported to Egypt. Total value of exports 1912, £774,162.

JEDDAH (or DJEDDAH), on the Red Sea, is the port of Mecca, from which it is distant about 47 miles. Population, about 20,000, with a large increase in the pilgrimage season. The Hedjaz being mostly a desert its exports are trifling, and limited to mother-of-pearl shells found in the Red Sea, hides and skins, gum, senna &c. No native manufactures exist. The import trade consists largely of British-Indian, English and American manufactures and breadstuffs.

The principal articles of import are grain, dates, rice, sugar, coffee, cotton, soap, petroleum, tobacco, hardware, piece goods, cotton fabrics from England and silk from Austria and China.

The principal articles of export are goat skins, sheep skins and mother-of-pearl shell.

MOSUL, the capital of NORTHERN MESOPOTAMIA, is situated on the right bank of the Tigris. The population of the city is 90,000; it is the distributing centre for a district the population of which is estimated to exceed a million. Recently local houses have begun to open direct communication with European firms. The nearest port is Basra, on the Persian Gulf, whence goods are brought by river steamer as far as Baghdad. From Baghdad they are forwarded by caravan to Mosul. Quite recently the district has begun to show signs of progress. It will be one of the stations on the Baghdad railway, when completed. The principal imports are Manchester goods, cloth of all kinds, haberdashery, hardware, earthenware and glass, sugar, indigo, tea, coffee, spices, provisions and confectionery, cigarette-paper, iron, soap and gunny-bags. Total value (1912), £178,230. The principal exports are wool, wheat, mohair, skins and hides, galls, cattle, sheep, horses (to India), and intestines. Total value (1912), £126,000.

RHODES (TURKISH ARCHIPELAGO), in the Ægean Sea. The population of the island is about 30,000, of whom all are Greeks, except 7,000 Mohammedans and 3,500 Jews. There are two harbours—the Liman and the Darsena. The vessels of the French Messageries and the Archipelago-American S.S. Co. call here. Vessels of the Greek company, "Pandeleon," "La Phocéenne," now under the Belgian flag, plying between Smyrna and various islands of the Ægean, also call at Rhodes, and from Rhodes direct for Alexandria; a Greek Steamship Co. has started a new line between the Piræus, Syra, the islands of the Sporades, Rhodes, Halki, Scarpanthos, Cassos and vice versâ; the Khedivial Mail Steamship & Graving Dock Co. run a line, including Rhodes in their itinerary—Egypt, Coast of Syria and Caramania, Smyrna, Constantinople, and vice versâ; and the Russian Steam Navigation Co. same line as the Khedivial. The Italian Steamship Co. "Società Nazionale di Servizi Marittimi," have established a regular weekly postal service between Brindisi, Patras, Corfu, Piræus and Rhodes. This line has been extended to Adalia, Selefkia and Mersina in connection with the Syria and Egypt line. Another Italian steamer plies between Rhodes, the Sporades isles, Syra and vice versâ. Principal products are fruits and vegetables (especially onions), sponges, and olive oil.

SAFED is an inland town near the Jordan and Lake Tiberias, with 20,000 inhabitants. The imports consist of English woollen goods known as madapolan (cham) and Manchester cloth; sugar from Trieste and Marseilles, timber chiefly from Austria and petroleum from Batoum; rice chiefly from Rangoon viâ England and tea and indigo direct from India. Railway from Haifa to Samech, then (by boat) to Tabeha. Roads for the conduct of the imports to Safed are the one from Beyrout by way of Sidon, Cassmijeh and Tebnin, and that from Damascus across the Jordan bridge, Bennet-Jakub. There is another more easy road, but this is only practicable in summer, viz., viâ Sidon, Nabathie, Moutallet-Zebed.

The exports consist chiefly of olive oil, fresh grapes, raisins, dried figs, raw wool and sheep-skins, a little grain, and fish from the Lake of Merom or Bahar el Huleh; there is also an export of wine and almond kernels from the Israel Colonies, Roschpina and Ainzetoun. At Rothschild's Colony (two hours from Safed) there is a flour mill worked by petroleum.

SAÏDA (or SIDON), a seaport town (population 15,000), about 25 miles south of Beyrout; exports, tobacco, cocoons, olive oil, sweet and bitter oranges, lemons, mandarins, figs, pomegranates, orange water, sesame, bones, skins, grain, honey and medlars. The imports are jute bags (from Calcutta), Indian and Egyptian rice, indigo, petroleum, sugar, salt, timber, tiles, coffee, hides, clothes, glass and china, cotton and woollen goods. Trade has improved in consequence of more frequent communication by sea. The Khedivial Line calls weekly on the way to Beirut and vice versâ. The Prince Line touches at Sidon in the fruit season and carries goods to Egypt and England. American and Russian steamers export oranges to the Black Sea ports. American-Archipelago line calls during the orange season for export to Constantinople.

SIDON, see SAÏDA.

SIVAS, an important town in the centre of Asia Minor. Exports consist of carpets, flour, opium and wheat &c. and the imports principally of cotton goods, sugar, iron and provisions. The principal trade centres are Sivas, Tokat and Amassia, all on a fairly good metalled road connecting with Samsoun, the principal port of the provinces. This road is continued south-east to Malatia and Kharput, and on to Bagdad, and forms one of the principal arteries of trade in the country. A very strong coarse cotton cloth called "bez," much used by the villagers, is woven on handlooms in houses at Sivas. "Manussa" cloth, here called "tireh," is made at Marsovan, Amassia and Zileh, the two former being the principal centres. In Gurun a good deal of wool and cotton weaving is carried on, the yarn being imported from Manchester. The only mines in full work are Gemin Bel mines near Enderes, worked by the Asia Minor Mining Company. Some flour mills with European machinery are at work at Sivas and Amassia, turbines being the usual motive power.

There is practically no direct trade, all business being done through Constantinople and Samsoon.

SMYRNA (Turkish IZIMIR), in Turkish Asia, is the principal port of the Levant. The entrance to the harbour narrows to about half-a-mile, but as the channel is well lighted and marked out the navigation is not dangerous. The anchorage is good, and protected from every wind. Large vessels can come alongside the quays to discharge. The population is 300,000.

The following are the principal exports: Grain, beans, cotton, raisins, figs, fruits fresh and dried, liquorice root, olive oil, opium, sponges, raw and tanned hides, carpets, mats, tobacco, valonia &c. and the imports consist of timber, spirits, cement, coal, coffee, flour, iron and ironware, petroleum, rice, sugar sulphur, leather, paper and textiles of all kinds (from England).

BRITISH CHAMBER OF COMMERCE OF SMYRNA.—The secretary of the British Chamber of Commerce of Smyrna will be glad to furnish, free of charge, all information required regarding business. A quarterly journal is distributed to its members gratis. The annual subscription for members is 10s.

Here are also Italian, Dutch, Turkish and French Chambers of Commerce.

Lloyd's Agent, J. Hönischer.

EGYPT

ALTHOUGH nominally a tributary state of Turkey, it is practically independent, being ruled over by Khedives, whose hereditary succession to the throne is recognised by an imperial firman of Turkey, and the succession guaranteed by the European Powers.

The total area of Egypt proper, excluding the Sudan, is over 400,000 square miles, and the population is about 11,000,000. The Sudan has an area of 950,000 square miles, with a population of about 2,000,000.

COMMERCE.—The principal articles of export are cotton and cotton seed, grain and maize, beans, sugar and gum, rice and skins; and the imports chiefly cotton goods, coal, woollen stuffs, tobacco, indigo, timber, spun cotton, clothing and metals.

The total imports during 1911 were valued at £E27,227,118 and the exports at £E28,598,991.

The Monetary Unit of Egypt is the £E of 100 piastres, value about £1 0s. 6d. British and $4.943 United States.

AKHMIME (Upper Egypt), on the Nile, midway between Kenneh and Syout. Population, 29,000.

Exports, opium, cereals; imports, cotton goods and indigo.

Gusmane Thomas (export & import merchant)
Migalloh Daoud (cotton spinner)
Société Anonyme des Moulins d'Egypte (corn & flour mills)

ALEXANDRIA, the principal trading port in Egypt, is situated on a neck of land formed by the Mediterranean and the Mariout Lake. Population about 400,000.

The total value of the imports during 1912 was £E22,157,029, of which £E7,288,518 from Great Britain, and of the exports £E33,790,256, of which £E15,814,195 to Great Britain.

The principal articles of export are cotton, cane sugar, cotton seed, onions, beans, quails, oilcakes, cigarettes and eggs.

Principal articles of import are cotton piece goods, coal, ironware, timber, flour, leaf tobacco, rice, petroleum, cattle and sheep, ironmongery, silk goods and raw silk, woollen goods, drapery, clothing, cotton yarns and machinery.

The total number of steam vessels entered during 1912 was 1,927 of 3,479,146 tons.

BRITISH CHAMBER OF COMMERCE OF EGYPT, 6 rue de l'Ancienne Bourse.—Secretary and editor of monthly journal, F. C. Lowick. This chamber, established in 1896 for the furtherance of British commercial interests in Egypt, receives from its members inquiries regarding business in this country, and furnishes them, free of charge, with all obtainable information which they may require; also seeks amongst the existing local houses suitable agents or correspondents for firms desirous of obtaining such; supplies members, gratis, with confidential reports on the financial standing &c. of proposed agents or buyers; and, in short, assists by all the means in its power in the development here of British trade. It publishes a monthly Commercial Report, which is distributed to its members gratis.

Here are also Austrian, French, Greek, Russian and Italian Chambers of Commerce.

Lloyd's Agents, Manley & Co. 3 rue Cléopâtre.

MANSOURAH,

on the Damietta branch of the Nile, 40 miles from Damietta, 109 from Alexandria and 91 from Cairo by rail. A steel railway bridge connects Mansourah with Talka on the government railway system. The Delta Light Railway Company has stations at Mansourah and Talka, communicating with their lines in the provinces of Dakahlia and Gharbieh. Population according to census 1897: natives, 34,473; Europeans, 1,658. Industry of the district, agricultural. Principal product is cotton. There is a light railway line, Chemins de Fer de la Basse-Egypte, belonging to a Belgian company, 109 kilometres, that runs between Mansourah and Matarieh, on Lake Menzaleh, and an extension is now being made to Damietta. By this means there is direct communication between Mansourah, chief town of a rich agricultural province, and Port Saïd, by a new service of passenger and freight steamers established by an English company, The Menzaleh Canal & Navigation Company, which has its headquarters in Cairo.

SUAKIN, the port on the Red Sea, is important as a market, and there is a considerable native trade with the interior. The population is about 10,000.

Imports consist chiefly of cotton goods, loaf sugar, tea, spices, perfumed oil and sandalwood, tobacco and flour.

Exports: Cotton, cotton seed, sesame, gum, ivory, millet, senna, skins, ghee and mother-of-pearl.

The area of land under cotton cultivation is increasing and cotton of fine quality is exported.

The Khedivial mail steamers have a weekly service from Suez, also lines connecting with Jeddah, Massowah and other ports. British steamers of the Bombay and Persian Gulf Line call at irregular intervals.

TANTAH (chief town of the province of GARBIEH), situated in Lower Egypt, on the main line between Cairo and Alexandria, 50 miles from former and 70 miles from latter town, is the principal railway junction on the Egyptian Government railways. Population 56,738.

This place is one of the cotton ginning centres of Lower Egypt, and has eight ginning factories and numerous flour mills. The cotton, which is conveyed by rail to Alexandria, amounts to about 300,000 to 350,000 cantars annually, with a corresponding quantity of cotton seed.

Cereals, which are grown in considerable quantities, are chiefly for local consumption.

Imports, English coal, Manchester goods, cheap German crockery, wood and petroleum.

ZAGÀZIG is situated in the province of SHARKIEH, in the Delta, about 14 miles from Tel-el-Kebir, on the Port Said and Suez line, half-way between Cairo and Ismailia, with an important station, and trains run to Cairo, Alexandria, Mansourah and Suez. The population of the province is about 750,000 and of the town 35,475.

Imports: English coal, cotton manufactures and petroleum; these are the three principal European articles used here. Wheat is produced in considerable quantities, but not for export, mostly for local consumption; there is a great export of flour, ground here by steam mills, for Suez, Jeddah, Suakin and other harbours of the Red Sea. Great cotton ginning centre for export.

ADEN, see INDIAN AND COLONIAL SECTION

ARABIA

OMAN, in S.E. Arabia, is an independent kingdom or principality having a coast line of about 1,500 miles along the Persian Gulf, extending from the vicinity of Ras Mussendom on the north to Dhofar on the south and being bounded towards the interior by the Great Arabian Desert. It has approximately an area of 81,000 square miles, and a population of 160,000. Muscat, the capital, is a walled town of about 10,000 inhabitants, with a small but well-sheltered harbour. The entire sea-borne commerce may be estimated at about £750,000 sterling, of which more than three-quarters is carried on with Muscat. This port trades with New York, India, Aden, Mauritius, Persian Gulf and Zanzibar. The other ports, frequented however only by native craft, are Mutrah, Sohar, Khaboorah, Burkha, Kuryat and Soor. The chief product of the country is fruits. Fresh dates are taken by America; dry dates, pomegranates, limes &c. are exported chiefly to India. The textile manufactures of the country, formerly extensive, have now been killed by the cheaper looms of Manchester and Bombay.

The Imports consist principally of rice, piece goods, cotton, sugar, grain, oil, coffee and silk. The Exports consist principally of dates, fruit, salt, hides, salt fish, pearls, cloth and wax.

Muscat is a port of call weekly for the mail steamers of B.I.S.N. Company. Agents, Messrs. W. J. Towell & Co. F. C. Strick & Co. Limited and the Bucknall S.S. Lines Limited, London, have monthly lines of steamers running from United Kingdom to Bussorah (Turkey), calling usually at Muscat. The Hamburg-Amerika also runs a steamer each month from Hamburg to Bussorah (Turkey), which always calls at Muscat. W. J. Towell & Co. act as agents for all these lines.

The Export and Import trade of Muscat during 1912-13 amounted to £765,028.

The Haikuan tael is reckoned at about 2s. $8\frac{5}{16}$d. British and $.727 United States.

AMOY is situated on an island separated by a narrow strait from the coast of Fukien. The port is convenient and well-sheltered.

The chief objects of cultivation in the country surrounding Amoy, besides rice and the usual food crops, are sugar, indigo, the opium poppy, Chinese jute, narcissus bulbs &c. The sugar cane is said to be richer in syrup than that grown in the West Indies, but is of smaller growth. The sugar is almost entirely exported to the North of China.

Most of the vessels visiting the port are (a) steamers coasting between Hong Kong and China ports; (b) steamers engaged in carrying emigrants to Straits Settlements or Manila; (c) steamers carrying tea to America and Europe.

The chief articles of import are kerosene oil from Sumatra, Borneo and the United States; beans and bean cake, from the north of China; raw cotton, both foreign and native; matches, principally from Japan; ginseng, from Corea and America, and various food stuffs, i.e. rice from Siam &c. wheat, vermicelli, prawns, dried and salt fish, bêche-de-mer and edible birds' nests. Breadstuffs, i.e. rice, wheat and flour, form one-third of the whole import trade.

The total foreign imports during 1912 were valued at £1,928,280 and the exports at £514,473.

ANTUNG, a trading centre and port in EASTERN MANCHURIA, is situated on the Yalu river, 20 miles from its mouth, and 230 miles from Chefoo and 135 from Darien by sea. Steamship connections with Chefoo almost daily, Dalny twice a week, Tientsin thrice a week and Japan every two weeks. The China Navigation Co. Ltd. carry on a regular fortnightly service between Shanghai and Antung. Through express trains run thrice weekly between Mukden and Fusan, connecting with the Trans-Siberian Railway. These trains cross the Yalu on the new 12-span steel bridge connecting the South Manchuria Railway (Antung) with the Chosen Government Railways (New Wiju).

CANTON, on the north bank of the Chu (or Pearl) river, is about 80 miles from Macao and 95 from Hong Kong. The branch line of the Canton-Hankow railway, 30 miles in length, is now open to Fatshan (the Birmingham of South China) and Samshui, on the West river. Of the main line to Hankow 64 miles are now open to Lai-tung. The railway between Canton and Kowloon (Hong Kong) is opened to through traffic. The population of Canton is estimated at 2,000,000, but probably does not much exceed 1,250,000. Canton is celebrated throughout China for its manufactories generally; but especially silk filatures, silk piece goods of all descriptions, matting, chinaware, ginger, in fact (more or less) every article used in China.

1912.	Hk. taels.
Foreign goods imported	26,419,493 (A)
Chinese produce imported	23,892,078 (B)
Exports of local origin	47,765,145 (C)

Principally:—

A. Shirtings, T cloths, yarn and woollen goods, kerosene, matches, wheat, flour, aniline dyes, paper, railway material and sugar
B. Beans, ground-nuts (for oil), vegetable oil, rice, raw silk, silk piece goods, satin
C. Silk and silk piece goods, tobacco, sugar, matting, cassin, bristles, canes, crackers, fans, preserves, tea, waste silk and many minor goods

Nearly all the import trade is done by Chinese, who obtain their supplies of foreign goods from Hong Kong.

Ample means of communication exist between Canton and Hong Kong and Canton and Macao by foreign steamers plying daily. There is also regular steam communication between Canton and the West River ports of Samshui and Wuchow.

A very considerable trade is done in the delta and up the West River as far as Wuchow by Chinese-owned launches towing junks, and above Wuchow to Nanning and Pose by steam and motor launches.

The proximity of Hong Kong enables many foreign products to be cheaply conveyed to Canton and the minor markets on its river in the regularly running junks, and therefore the Canton imports by no means represent the whole consumption of this district.

The total number of vessels entered during 1912 was 4,317, of 2,534,144 tons.

CHEFOO is a port in Northern China, province of Shantung, the population amounting to about 85,000. It is situated about 45 miles from the British colony of Weihaiwei, and about 80 from the Japanese port of Talienwan, or Tairen. The foreign imports, except coal, are principally imported through Shanghai.

Chefoo has always been a great distributing centre, and the introduction of the inland water navigation rules, by which the ports in the Gulf of Pechihli have become accessible to foreign steamers, has added very considerably to its importance. Small steamers now ply regularly between it and Yang Chiao Kou (the port of Chinan, the capital of the province), Lung Kou, Teng Chow, Ta Tung Kou, near the mouth of the Yalu river, and other places, the trade of which is considerable. It is probable that the German colony of Tsingtau (Kiaochow), which is in the vicinity, may attract away some of the business now the railway is completed to Chinan, but at present it is too early to say positively what effect it will have. This line taps a huge, though on the whole poor, district, for the trade of which Chefoo has hitherto been the outlet. The trade prospects of Chefoo have been considerably affected since the occupation of Port Arthur by the Japanese and the establishment of the Chinanfu-Tsingtau railway.

The trade in foreign goods consists principally in cotton and woollen goods, metals, coals, kerosene oil, sugar &c.

The chief exports to foreign countries are straw braid, raw wild silk, pongees and refuse silk: to other parts of China, beans, bean cake, fruit, groundnuts, raw silk, vermicelli &c.

The total Imports in 1912 were valued at: native, £1,098,856; foreign, £1,323,387, and the Exports at £1,963,059.

HANGCHOW, the capital of the province of Chekiang, is situated on the left bank of the Ch'ien Tang river, some 120 miles from Shanghai, with which place it is connected by rail. Of the exports, silk, raw and manufactured, is far the most important, amounting in fact to over four-fifths of the gross total. Total value of exports, 1912, £2,066,286. The population is some 750,000. As a manufacturing centre Hangchow takes place even before Soochow. Its three great trades are: silk weaving (the very best quality), including several kinds of crape and gauze; in the city there are 7,000 hand looms, worked by 28,000 hands; 360 of these looms are exclusively devoted to the production of Imperial silk: the production of fans of all kinds, and the making of thin tin-foil, from which are formed the imitation ingots of silver, burnt in such immense quantities by the Chinese. In addition it sends out thread, string, colors, drugs, lacquer and teas. Imports, 1912, foreign, £425,759; native, £591,467.

HANKOW is the principal commercial centre on the Yangtsze; it is situated 600 miles from the mouth of the Yangtsze, at the point where the Han river runs into it. On the south side of the river is the city of Wuchang, the capital of the province of Hupeh, and on the north bank are the city of Hanyang and the town of Hankow. The population of Hankow, Hanyang and Wuchang is together about half a million, of which Hankow contains some 200,000. Hankow is most conveniently situated as an emporium of the tea and silk producing districts of central and western China. Of the former it draws supplies from places as distant as Pu-erh in the south-west corner of Yunnan, close to the Burmah and Tonquin frontier; as Pinglo, in Kwangsi, not far from Canton, as well as from the nearer districts in the provinces of Hunan, Hupeh, Kweichow and Kiangsi. This tea is distributed partly by direct shipments to Great Britain and Odessa by sea, partly by direct carriage to Russian Siberia by the Siberian railway and up the Han river, and partly to Shanghai, whence the tea is shipped to Europe, America and the colonies. It draws its supply of silk mostly from the provinces of Hupeh, Hunan and Szechuan, where the climate is peculiarly favourable to sero-culture.

There are at Hankow several large steam factories for pressing tea into tablets for the Siberian market, belonging to Russian firms.

The Imports for 1912 were as follows:—Foreign imports, £7,584,367; native, £3,470,268. The Exports were £12,621 041.

The principal exports from Hankow are beans, rice, sesamum seed, tea, wood-oil, raw silk, hides, tobacco, raw cotton, albumen, bristles and pig-iron; while the principal imports consist of cotton goods, cotton yarn, petroleum, sugar, native paper, metals, gunny-bags, cigarettes &c.

Here is the Hankow General Chamber of Commerce and also a Chinese Chamber of Commerce.

ICHANG. Population, 40,000; situated on the north bank of the river Yangtze, 393 miles from Hankow and about 600 from Chungking. Ichang is the port of transhipment for goods imported for and exported from the Province of Szechuen. There are two steamers plying between this and Hankow under the British flag, two under the Chinese, and two under the Japanese. A steamer also now runs to Chungking.

There is no direct trade with foreign countries, foreign imports being obtained in small lots from Hankow and Shanghai. Chief articles, cotton piece goods and yarn, kerosene and fancy goods. The district produces very little for export except vegetable tallow, varnish and hides. As in case of imports, they are consigned in small lots to merchants at Hankow.

KEWKEANG (or KIUKIANG) is 14 nautical miles above the entrance of the Poyang Lake on the south bank of the river Yangtze. It is about 445 geographical miles from Shanghai and 187 from Hankow. The estimated population is about 60,000. There is no direct trade with Great Britain or her colonies.

The leading imports are cotton, yarn, cotton piece goods, woollen goods, tin slabs, sugar, copper, lead, seaweed and Russian and American kerosene oil. This trade is entirely in the hands of Chinese, who draw their supplies from Shanghai, with which port there is daily communication by river steamers.

The tea exported in 1912 amounted to 287,952 cwts.; tobacco, 242,682 cwts.; beans and peas, 431,796 cwts.; paper, 183,127 cwts.; ramie fibre, 148,026 cwts.; sesamum seed 104,719 cwts.; porcelain, 52,006 cwts.; raw cotton, 35,079 cwts. Total value of native exports in 1912 was £2,762,809. Principal imports in 1912, Indian yarn, 151,785 cwts.; cotton piece goods, 479,964 pieces; kerosene oil, 4,693,400 gallons. Total value of foreign imports in 1912 was £1,872,684.

From here is shipped the world-renowned porcelain ware from the factories at Kin-tê-chen.

NEWCHWANG is the principal port of Manchuria, and is situated on the Liao river, about 14 miles from its mouth. The population is roughly estimated at about 70,000. There is good railway and river communication with the interior.

The chief exports are beans, bean cake and bean oil; the chief imports piece goods and yarn.

There are extensive mines of good coal in the province, but only those at Fushun are being properly worked. Other minerals are neglected.

Imports, 1912: foreign, £2,733,464; native, £2,479,848. Exports, 1912: £4,194,592.

PAKHOI is situated on a peninsula on the Gulf of Tonking. It is the port of Lien-Chow, and goods are also distributed by junk to other places along the coast. Lien-Chow is 17 miles inland, and from thence a considerable distribution of piece goods into Kwanghsi towards Nan Ning and the West River takes place. Pakhoi has a population of about 30,000, mostly poor; Lienchowfu is much larger.

The principal items of the import trade are Indian cotton yarn, piece goods, flour, opium and kerosene oil, and all exports go to Hong Kong. Principal exports are:—Aniseed oil, hides, indigo, sugar and fishery produce and pigs.

The total foreign imports in 1912 were £220,760; the exports, £165,165.

PEKING is the capital of China, situated about 130 miles from the mouth of the Pei-ho river. Here is no direct foreign trade. Peking is reached by railway in 3½ hours from Tientsin, its seaport, beyond which port steamers do not ascend. It is also connected by rail with Hankow (Central China) and with Kalgan (Northern China). A project is now being worked out to connect the latter city across the Mongolian steppes with the Great Siberian Railway at Lake Baikal. When carried out, Peking can be reached from London in ten days. Since the Boxer siege of Peking and Tientsin during the summer of 1900, great improvements have been effected in Peking, and the city has become quite Europeanized. Wide avenues now run in every direction, a new system of drainage has been completed, the water supply has been greatly improved, the principal streets have been macadamized, and they are kept repaired and sprinkled. Fine European hotels have been built, and the present appearance of the city denotes that it has recovered to a great extent from the state of general decay into which it had lapsed for many centuries past. Population, 1,250,000.

SHANGHAI, native population in city about 650,000; foreign population in foreign settlements (1911) 15,000. These figures, however, have been very considerably augmented, owing to the influx of natives from surrounding districts seeking employment in the various cotton mills, silk filatures &c. which have been established. The foreign population has also increased, but there are no returns showing the exact figures under either head. Is on the left bank of the river Whangpoo, 12 miles above the entrance.

Shanghai is the centre of the shipping trade, and the distributing centre for the northern, as Hong Kong is for the southern, ports, and therefore figures for by far the greater portion of the direct trade.

The greatest portion of the foreign goods imported into Shanghai is shipped to the various consuming ports from Newchwang down to Ningpo, and to the Riverine ports on the Yangtsze-Kiang, for distribution in Central China.

The principal imports into Shanghai are opium, cotton goods, cotton yarns, iron and tin, coal, aniline, machinery, petroleum and sugar. Total foreign imports, 1912, Hk. taels 210,071,837.

The principal exports from Shanghai are silk and silk goods, tea, raw cotton, bristles, native cloth, hemp, hides, sesamum seeds, vegetable tallow, varnish, wax and sheeps' wool. Total native exports, 1912, Hk. taels 81,716,838.

The erection of cotton mills and silk spinning mills is making Shanghai an important manufacturing centre.

The total number of vessels entered during 1912 was 10,349 of 9,185,340 tons, of which 2,181 of 3,808,758 tons were British.

Here is a Chamber of Commerce (L. E. Canning, secretary); also an Italian Chamber of Commerce (A. Torelli, secretary) and a Chinese General Chamber of Commerce.

SHASHIH. — This is a port about 85 miles below Ichang. Shashih is the largest and an increasing market in Central China for native cotton cloth. There is a considerable import of miscellaneous foreign goods from Shanghai and Hankow, and shipping firms of those cities are represented here by native agents. No direct trade with foreign countries. The population of the town is estimated at 74,000.

SOOCHOW.—Soochow lies not far from the eastern shore of the great Taihu lake. It is about 80 miles west, and a little north, of Shanghai, with which port it is connected by excellent inland waterways. It is the capital of the province of Kiangsu. Past its walls runs the southern section of the Grand Canal, which joins Hangchow to Chinkiang; and in every direction spread creeks or canals, affording easy communication with the numerous towns in the surrounding country. It is an important manufacturing centre, with a population of 500,000. Its two chief manufactures are satins (the best in China) and silk embroideries of various kinds. In addition it is said to send out silk goods, linen and cotton fabrics, paper, lacquer ware, and articles in iron, ivory, wood, horn and glass.

SWATOW, a port of the province of KWANGTUNG; it is on the river Han, 6 miles from its mouth, and is accessible to steamers drawing 22 feet. The population is about 65,000. Swatow is the shipping port of Ch' ao-chow Fu, a prefectural city of some 500,000 inhabitants, situated 30 miles away.

All goods from and destined for Great Britain are transhipped at Hong Kong; the only direct trade with Europe and America being in kerosene oil.

The chief articles of foreign import consist of cotton and woollen goods, metals and opium, and the native imports of bean cake and pulse from Newchwang, Hankow and Chefoo.

Imports of foreign origin (1912), £2,891,444; imports of native origin, £3,397,271. Exports, £2,469,409.

The chief exports are sugar (raw and refined), fruit (chiefly oranges), nankeens, grasscloth, tobacco, paper &c.

It should be noted that the trade of the port, though carried on in foreign bottoms, is almost entirely in the hands of native merchants, the European firms being chiefly shipping and commission agents.

The emigration of Chinese coolies is an important factor in the trade of the port, 151,719 emigrants having left the port in 1912 for the Straits Settlements, Siam, Netherlands India &c.

TENGYUEH is a trading centre in Southern China, near the Yunnan frontier. Population about 25,000 The chief industry of the district is rice growing. The chief imports are piece goods and yarns, total value, 1912, £278,488; principal exports, raw silk, musk and hides, total value, 1912, £104,076.

British Consul, J. L. Smith.

TIENTSIN is situated on the river Peiho, about 50 miles from the sea. Vessels of 12 feet draught can ascend as far as Tientsin, in most instances without lightering any of their cargo at all at the mouth of the river. There is a large fleet of tugs and lighters employed in bringing cargo by the river to Tientsin. The river is generally closed to navigation from the beginning of December to the beginning of March, but commercial navigation now continues uninterruptedly throughout the entire winter viâ Tientsin's new winter port of Chin-wang-tao, at the extreme eastern terminus of the Great Wall of China, from which ice-free harbour all merchandise is transported without delay by railway to Tientsin and Peking. The population of Tientsin is 1,250,000. Coal is produced in considerable quantities.

Tientsin is now connected by rail with Peking and Kalgan on the north, with Hankow and the vast Yangtse belt on the south, and (viâ Manchuria) with the Great Siberian railway on the east, so that travellers can now reach London by rail in 15 days from Tientsin. The new railway from Tientsin to Shanghai has also just been completed. The railway system of Northern China has consequently now been focused at Tientsin, whose trade promises soon to see great development.

The total imports during 1912 were valued at, foreign, Hk. taels 48,544,533; native, Hk. taels 18,045,866, and the exports at Hk. taels 37,442,156.

The vessels entered during 1912 were 908 of 1,170,854 tons.

WENCHOW is the chief city of the department of the same name, in the province of Chè-Kiang. The population is about 80,000. The trade of the port has hitherto been entirely in Chinese hands, but British and Japanese firms are now gradually acquiring an interest therein, and the port shows some promise of opening up at last. The imports consist of cottons, yarns, opium, kerosene oil and sugar. The principal exports are tea, oranges, medicines, leaf tobacco and paper umbrellas and umbrella frames.

WUHU, population 80,000, in the province of Anhui, on the right bank of the Yang-Tse-Kiang river, is a port that supplies a considerable district.

The imports for 1912 amounted to: foreign, £1,449,678; native, £402,916, and consisted of cotton goods, woollen goods, kerosene oil, sugar and miscellaneous articles.

The exports for 1912, which amounted to £2,590,289, consisted principally of rice, raw and waste silk, tea, feathers, beans, hides, seed &c.

The seagoing vessels which come to Wuhu either in ballast or with a light cargo of bags &c. return with cargoes of grain, chiefly rice, for export coastwise to other parts of China. Those under the British flag belong either to the China Navigation Company Limited (agents: Messrs. Butterfield & Swire), or to the Indo-China Steam Navigation Company Limited (agents: Messrs. Jardine, Matheson & Co. Ltd.), the former having normally the greater number of vessels engaged in this trade.

HARVEYS ADVERTISING and BILLPOSTING AGENCY

Established 1907

11a, NANKING ROAD, Shanghai, China.

Cables: "REMINDER"

HARVEYS ADVERTISING AGENCY are the pioneers of PUBLICITY ADVERTISING in Shanghai, and the 200 advertising stations rented by HARVEYS AGENCY include some of the finest available positions both for display of Posters and Painted Signs. Painted Advertisement Signs are receiving a considerable amount of attention from Merchants and Storekeepers in various trades owing to the size and the prominent positions in which they are located; the measurement of each sign is 10 by 10 feet and can be painted to any design supplied by the Advertiser, or sketches will be submitted by Harveys Agency from competent Foreign and Chinese artists. Prices vary according to position from Taels 6 to 15 (approximately G. $3:66 to G. $9:15—£0:15:0 to £1:17:6) per month on contracts of one year, which includes cost of making the sign and painting twice annually. Posters appealing to Chinese trade should be given special care, and it is advisable to have the printing done locally owing to the intricate nature of the formation of the Chinese characters.

JAPAN

JAPAN consists of the five large islands, viz. Honshiu (the Japanese mainland), Shikoku, Kiushiu, Hokkaido (Yezo) and Formosa, together with several smaller groups of islands. It has an area, including the small islands, of 161,208 square miles, with an estimated population in 1913 of 52,985,423 inhabitants. Formosa has an area of 13,458 square miles and an estimated population of 3,512,607 (1913). By the treaty of peace signed on Sept. 5th, 1905, Russia ceded to Japan the lease of Port Arthur, Ta Lien &c. and also half of the island of Saghalien (re-named Karafuto) (area about 30,000 square miles, and with an estimated population of 50,000).

Japan is a constitutional empire, and the Emperor exercises the supreme executive and legislative powers with the assistance of his Ministers appointed by himself. The legislature consists of a House of Peers and a House of Representatives.

The chief agricultural products of Japan are wheat, rice, silk, tea, tobacco, wax, cotton and vegetables.

The mineral products consist of gold, silver, copper, lead and iron, also coal; of the latter, over 17,000,000 tons are annually produced. Other mineral products found are antimony, manganese, cobalt and oxide of iron, and of non-metallic substances, petroleum, sulphur, kaolin, asphalte, marble.

Among the principal manufactures of Japan may be mentioned saké, a fermented beverage extracted from rice, and also the camphor industry (a Government monopoly), the cotton spinning mills, silk spinning mills, paper mills, cement works, glass works, rope factories and match factories. The principal exports are raw silk (which comprises more than a quarter of the total), silk manufactures, coal, copper, cotton yarn, matches, tea and rice. The coal is exported chiefly to China, Corea, Hong Kong and the Straits Settlements. The principal imports are raw cotton, wool, woollen and cotton tissues, yarns, petroleum, grains and seeds, manures, iron and steel, machinery, drugs, chemicals, oils &c.

The export and import trade of Japan Proper during 1912 amounted to yens 1,145,476,740.

HAKODATE, the principal port in the Island of Hokkaido or Yezo, is easy of access, and, with its well-sheltered roadstead, can accommodate over 100 vessels of from 3,000 to 5,000 tons, being the largest harbour in Japan, with an excellent dry dock. Harbour works are now being undertaken, comprising a breakwater 3,300 feet long, which will enclose a space for a safely-protected anchorage of 1 square mile, 95 acres in extent. The works are to be completed by 1917. The population of Hakodate on December 31st, 1911, was 88,888. The foreign imports at this port in 1912 amounted to £454,156 and exports to £561,689 (foreign trade only). Sulphur export in 1912 was £93,997; seaweed export, mostly to China, was £83,303. Other exports are fish, including cuttle-fish, bêche-de-mer, shell and other (£68,034), rice (£23,098), kerosene (£19,967), and salt (£201,254). The imports are salted fish and fish manure from Siberia; also phosphatic manure (£3,215 in 1912) and kerosene £98,904.

The principal coal mines in the Hokkaido are those of Sorachi, Poronai and Yubari, all of which belong to the Hokkaido Coal Mining and Steamship Company (Hokkaido Tanko Kisen Kwaisha), Shinyubari, Honbetsu, Manji, Mitsu Bishi mines in Ishikari province, Kayanuma, also smaller ones near Rumoe and Kushiro, and in addition there are numerous mines with outputs of 25,000 tons or less scattered here and there throughout the island. The output of the coal during 1912 was 1,884,845 tons. There are, in addition, gold, sulphur (output in 1912, 30,867 tons), silver, copper and manganese and petroleum mines in the island. The output of petroleum in 1912 was 203,894 gallons, showing an increase of 156,339 gallons over that of 1911. Here is a Chamber of Commerce.

MOJI and SHIMONOSEKI. The former is situated on the northernmost corner of Kiushiu on the S.E. and the latter on the N.W. side of the Shimonoseki Straits, Shimonoseki being under the jurisdiction of Yamaguchi, 51 miles away, and Moji under that of Fukuoka, 49 miles away. Liners run regularly to all foreign ordinary ports of call, and while from Moji the Government Kyushu Railway taps the south of Japan, the Government Sanyo Railway from Shimonoseki taps the north. Ferry boats ply between the two termini. Steamer anchorage is on the Moji side. Population, Moji, 1912, 70,714, and Shimonoseki, 1912, 67,420. Moji is the largest coaling port in Japan, being situated in the immediate vicinity of extensive coal districts. The principal exports consist of coal, sugar, cotton yarn, piece goods, cement and timber, and the imports machinery, flour, wheat, rails, railway materials, cotton, iron ore, hardware, nails, sugar, rice, beans, bean-cake, pig iron, oil cake, sulphate of ammonia, phosphate rock, kerosene oil, salt, alkalis, pulp, mats and condensed milk. The imports during 1912 for Moji were £2,684,203; exports, £1,579,785; for Shimonoseki, imports, £10,942; exports, £44,868.

MURORAN is an open port on the island of HOKKAIDO. The harbour of Muroran, the third largest in Japan, is surrounded by mountains, so that complete immunity from storms and rough seas is enjoyed and there is a great depth of water. Pop. (1912), 30,581. Here are large steel works. The exports, principally coal, sleepers and timber, during 1912 were valued at £182,276, and the imports were valued at £41,460.

NAGASAKI, the chief port and largest town in KIUSHU, has a large, commodious and well-sheltered harbour. The population on December 31, 1912, was 154,351. There used to be a very great shipping business done, but trade has been steadily on the decline since the Russo-Japanese war, and Nagasaki is now little more than a coaling station. It is directly connected with the interior of the island of Kiushu by rail.

The principal imports into Nagasaki consist of Western produce: kerosene oil, metals, provisions, wine and spirits, machinery and locomotives; Eastern produce: raw cotton, oilcake, rice and sugar.

The total imports during 1912 were valued at £1,295,000, and the exports at £403,586.

Of late years Satsuma porcelain clay has been exported to Osaka, Kyoto and Tokio, where it is manufactured and painted, a higher class of workmen being available at those ports. Only common articles for daily native use are as a rule made at Kagoshima (the chief town in Satsuma). There are also important potteries at Arita and Imari, where the famous wares of those names are produced. The total number of vessels entered during 1912 was 981, of 2,587,988 tons.

Here is a Japanese Chamber of Commerce and a Rice Exchange. A Municipal Commercial Museum has recently been opened.

NIIGATA (or NEEGATA) situated in the centre of the province of Echigo, is the principal city on the west coast of Japan, has a population of about 61,616, and is a bar harbour, with only 7 or 8 feet of water in it. Large vessels anchor in the roadstead, about a mile from the town. There are no foreign merchants here. British vessels call here occasionally, but as a port for foreign trade it has virtually ceased to exist. Rice is the chief product of the district, but there is no direct export and individual cargoes are comparatively trifling.

OSAKA is situated on the north-east shore of Osaka Bay. Vessels drawing 28 feet can enter the harbour, which is 3 miles from the industrial centre, with which connection is at present poor, cargo having to be sent up by lighter.

The population of Osaka is 1,331,994 (1912).

The chief industries of the industrial district of which Osaka is the centre are the manufacture of cotton yarn or cloth, knit goods, matches, copper and brass utensils, glassware, carpets, leatherware, umbrellas, sake and other liquors, and furniture. Cotton spinning is the special feature of the Osaka industries.

In 1912 the imports amounted to £2,713,600 and the exports to £5,850,700. The total trade with Korea, import and export, amounted to £3,420,900. When considering these figures it should be borne in mind that the vast majority of the European, American and Indian imports are cleared through the Kobe customs, being brought up to Osaka either by lighter or by rail. Thus it will be seen that the Osaka import trade is in reality much greater than the above figures would seem to indicate. The principal imports are cotton and woollen manufactures, metals, kerosene oil, rice, sugar, cotton (raw and unginned), and miscellaneous produce. The principal exports are cotton piece goods, knitted goods, towels, copper, antimony, matches, toys, buttons, brushes, soaps, glass wares, umbrellas, cotton yarn &c.; also a peculiar description of carpet, called "Dantsu" carpets, made from cotton waste, and are largely exported.

TOKYO, the capital of and the largest city in Japan, is situated on the Bay of Tokio, 18 miles from Yokohama. The population is about 2,186,000. The port is not open to foreign shipping, and though, both as a consumer and distributor of foreign imports, the city is of great importance, almost all its foreign trade is as a matter of fact conducted through the port of Yokohama, and the medium of the foreign merchants resident there. It is the seat of several important manufactures, the centre of the railway system of Japan, and there is a considerable resident foreign population, composed largely of the officials of the foreign legations, scientific and other experts employed in the Japanese government offices and educational institutions, and missionaries. Here are a Commercial Museum (Tsukiji ward) and a Chamber of Commerce (Tokyo Shogyo Kaigi Sho, 1 Yuraku-cho, Itchome, Kojimachi-ku).

The foreign consulates are all at Yokohama, the embassies and legations only being situated in Tokyo.

COREA

COREA (or Chosen) is a peninsula, situated to the north-east of China, between that empire and Japan, separating the Sea of Japan and the Yellow Sea. It is bounded on the north by Manchuria, on the north-east by Siberia, on the east by the Sea of Japan, on the west by the Yellow Sea and on the south by the Channel of Corea. The territory of Corea was, by a treaty concluded in August, 1910, annexed to Japan, and now forms an integral part of that empire. Corean affairs are administered by the Governor-General, who represents the Japanese Government. The Corean population in 1912 was estimated to be 13,832,376, and the Japanese population in 1912 was 242,028. Foreign population was: Chinese, 15,909; British, 197; American, 565; other nationalities, 121. There are several open ports, Chemulpo Fusan, Wonsan, Mokpo, Chinnampo, Kunsan and Songchin being the principal. Corea is a purely agricultural country, with no manufacture of sufficient importance to attract foreign attention. A railway system under the control of the Railway Board in Japan is open from Seoul to Chemulpo; to Fusan from Seoul and Seoul to Wiju, 674 miles being open to traffic. The principal articles of import are machinery and railway material, matches and grass-cloths, cotton manufactures, woollens, metals, kerosene oil, and the exports, fish (fresh, dried and salted), rice, hides, ginseng, beans and gold. Ginseng is a Government monopoly. The shipping trade is almost exclusively in the hands of Japanese shipping companies (Nippon Yusen Kaisha and the Osaka Shosen Kaisha).

MOKPO, opened to foreign trade 1 October, 1897, is a seaport in the province of Zenra, and has an excellent harbour. Population, 13,000. It lies at the mouth of the Eigan river, which is about 80 miles long, on the south-west coast of Chosen, and forms the outlet for the produce of the province of Zenra, where rice, beans, cotton &c. are cultivated abundantly. The Eigan river, draining nearly the whole province, the island products, as well as the inland produce, must be handled and shipped via Mokpo; the commercial future of this city is therefore assured. The new railway connecting with the Keifu main line, when completed, will give additional facilities. The cheapness of labour &c. offers unparalleled opportunity for manufacturing, especially spinning and weaving.

PING-YANG (Port, Chinnampo, 34 miles distant). Ping-Yang is open to foreigners as a trading mart. This city (population of urban prefecture, 163,619 Koreans, 8,940 Japanese) is situated on the north bank of the Tatong river, about 70 miles from its mouth. In addition to the rich agricultural resources of the Tatong Valley there is also a large supply of mineral wealth, especially in the Pyeng-an province—there are also reported to be rich gold mines in the southern part of Hoang-hai—which may play an important part in the future development of the new port. "Placer" gold mining is carried on very largely in the northern portion of Pyeng-an province, in the tributary streams of the Tatong and Yalu rivers, and in 1895 the Corean Government granted a concession to work gold in the district of Unsan—a tract of about 25 square miles, situated about 100 miles north of Ping-yang city, to an American syndicate. Coal and iron mines are also being worked fairly extensively near Ping-yang, and copper is being worked in the north of North Pyeng-an province. The Standard Oil Co. of New York have a depot here.

SEOUL (Japanese name, KEIJO), with a population of nearly 250,000, is the capital of the Japanese Colony of Chosen and of the province of Kyeng-Keui. It is distant some 26 miles from the port of Chemulpo, and forms the terminus of railway lines to Chemulpo, Fusan (whence two steamers every other day connect with the Japanese railway system) and Antung, Mukden and the Siberian Railway. Express trains (three a week) now connect Fusan and Seoul with Chang-Chun and thence with the Chinese Eastern Railway and the Siberian Railway route to Europe.

Seoul possesses a system of electric tramways, which connect the business parts of the city with the river ports of Yongsan and Mapo, some 4 miles distant. There are also electric light and gas installations and waterworks. Imports, 1912, £1,188,207; exports, 1912, £17,393.

FORMOSA (TAIWAN)

THE Island of Formosa was ceded to Japan by China in 1895. The area is 13,887 square miles, and the population in December, 1913, was officially stated to be 3,512,607. The chief agricultural products are rice, tea, sugar, ramie, jute, camphor, camphor oil &c. The chief mineral products are gold, silver, copper, coal, sulphur and salt. The four principal ports of the island are Tamsui, Keelung, Takow and Anping, which accounted for nearly 97 per cent. of the total trade of the island.

The principal exports are sugar, rice, camphor and camphor oil, tea, copper and alcohol. The principal imports are opium, oil cake, machinery, tobacco, kerosene oil, rails, timber, textiles, bridge materials &c. from foreign countries; and provisions, cotton goods, timber, iron and steel, flour, fertilisers, cement, rice, drugs &c. from or viâ Japan.

Sugar.—The total production in 1912 was 3,490,350 cwts., of which about 3,281,000 cwts. were sent to Japan and the remainder to Canada, the United Kingdom and India. The area under cultivation in 1912 was 158,500 acres. The production for 1913 was estimated to be 1,600,000 cwts.

Camphor.—The quantity of camphor shipped in 1912 was 8,649,319 lbs., divided as follows:—United States, 2,370,289 lbs.; Germany, 2,243,366 lbs.; Japan, 1,693,969 lbs.; United Kingdom, 1,003,086 lbs.; France, 943,536 lbs.; India, 322,290 lbs.; Austria, 72,783 lbs.

Salt, opium, camphor and tobacco are Government monopolies.

The Export and Import trade of Formosa during 1912 amounted to yen 100,678,020.

ANPING, see TAKOW & ANPING

DAITOTEI (or TWATUTIA), a native town adjoining the capital, with a population of 23,000, is the centre of the tea trade. The larger part of the tea is now shipped from Keelung to America by Transpacific liners, which make it a regular port of call during the tea season, or by steamers passing through the Suez Canal.

TAKOW and ANPING in the district of TAINAN (South Formosa) have a joint population of about 63,000. They are largely resorted to by shipping during the winter and spring to load sugar for Japan. The chief exports are sugar, lungan, turmeric, sesamum seed and rice. The export of camphor and the import of opium, both of which are Government monopolies, is carried on at the ports of Tamsui and Keelung in North Formosa only. Chief imports are cotton and woollen piece goods, kerosene oil, flour, matches, beer &c. Takow (population 13,800), on the south-west coast, has a harbour available at present for vessels of 4,000 tons gross, and works on an extended plan are in progress, to be completed in 1922, whereby moorings for vessels of 7,000 tons will be provided within the harbour. Provision for the entrance and clearance of 450,000 tons of cargo per annum is to be made. The inner harbour has anchorage for 3 to 4 steamers of 1,000 to 3,000 tons, depth at low water 20 feet. Takow is now the largest export port, mainly on account of the sugar industry in 1912, value of exports was £3,567,375 (over 90 per cent. to Japan). The anchorage at Anping is merely an open roadstead, somewhat protected by the contour of the adjacent coast during the north-east monsoon. The bulk of the trade is with Chinese and Japanese ports.

TAMSUI (HOBÉ) and KEELUNG are ports situated in the northern part of the Island of Formosa.

TAMSUI, situated at the mouth of the Tamsui river, distant 12 miles by rail from the capital of Formosa, Taihoku (Taipeh), is the largest port of Northern Formosa and has the most modern facilities in the Island. It has the largest direct foreign trade, though that is small in comparison with the trade with Japan. Population, 6,000.

KEELUNG, 40 miles by sea from Tamsui, but connected with Taihoku (Taipeh), the capital, by rail, 18 miles, is a small port and only vessels of 1,500 to 2,000 tons are able to anchor therein. It is the principal port for both Japanese and foreign vessels. Population, 18,000.

The principal exports from Tamsui and Keelung are: Camphor, coal, tea, sugar, lumber and rice. Tea is the principal industry during the summer months, some 19,000,000 lbs. being shipped during the season chiefly to the U.S.A. The total value of exports in 1912 was Keelung, £1,815,440 (over 70 per cent. to Japan) and Tamsui, £801,300 (all to foreign countries).

The principal imports into Tamsui and Keelung are opium, cotton goods, lead, flour, oil, timber, paper (Chinese), rice, cement, flour, oilcake, machinery and tobacco, the total value of imports in 1912 being Keelung, £2,340,770 (nearly 90 per cent. from Japan) and Tamsui, £769,100 (all from foreign countries).

There is regular steamer communication between Tamsui and Hong-kong; between Keelung and Japan; Takow and Hong Kong; Takow, Shanghai, Tientsin and Dalny; Takow and Japan.

N.B.—The British Consul at Tamsui is now consul for the Island of Formosa, the Consulate at Tainan having been abolished.

KWANTUNG

THE territory of Kwantung, consisting of the southern portion of the Liaotung Peninsula in Manchuria, was originally acquired by Russia from China in 1898 on a lease of 25 years, with a possible extension. At the close of the Russo-Japanese War the balance of the lease was by the Treaty of Portsmouth handed over to Japan, China being a consenting party. It has an area of 1,220 square miles and had in 1911 an estimated population of 488,136 (41,260 Japanese). The territory is under a Japanese Governor-General, the headquarters of the Administration being at Port Arthur. The chief products are maize, millet, beans, wheat, rice, tobacco and hemp. Salt is also largely manufactured. The South Manchuria railway connects Dairen and Port Arthur with Mukden and Harbin and the Chinese Eastern railways.

DAIREN (or DALNY) (population (1911), including Chinese suburb of Shaokangtzu and S.M. Railway Co.'s works at Shahokou 58,636)is the terminus of the South Manchuria railway and a commercial port on Talienwan Bay. The imports are rice, provisions, wines and spirits, tobacco, yarns, building and railway material and timber, iron manufactures and machinery. Total value (1912), £4,828,146. The exports are soya beans, wild silk, bean cake, coal and oil. Total value (1912), £4,408,115.

PORT ARTHUR is situated on the south-west point of the Liau-Tung peninsula, a narrow but deep entrance for ships being on the east side. Port Arthur possesses an open harbour of some 460 yards long and about 320 broad, which at low water has a depth of 18 feet. A dry dock, shipbuilding yard and iron foundries are at Port Arthur. All works are electrically lighted and connected with each other by rails. The port is always free of ice, and on the north side lies the town of Port Arthur, which had in 1911 a population of 26,992. Port Arthur's principal importance lies in its strategical value. There is practically no European trade there.

In 1878 D. NAGATA made his first shipments of Bamboo to Europe and America. It was a pioneer experiment, as hitherto no such trade had been done from Japan. The attempt, however, proved eminently successful and encouraged its promoters to further efforts in the same direction. Business increased steadily, with the result that now, after nearly 40 years' experience of the trade, D. NAGATA is not only the largest bamboo exporter in Japan but the recognised authority on all pertaining to the growth and preparation of Bamboo for industrial purposes. The Bamboo Colouring Process and the Gas Scorching Process are both patented by D. NAGATA. Correspondence Solicited.

PERSIA

THE area of Persia (its native name IRAN) is about 630,000 square miles, and its population is estimated at between nine and ten millions.

IMPORTS.—The principal articles of import are: woven goods (cotton, wool, silk), sugar (chiefly from Russia), tea, mostly from India, cotton yarn, coffee, pepper, cinnamon, spices, drugs, indigo, glass, metals (copper, iron, tin &c.), china, lamps, candles, petroleum, rice, matches, carriages, paper, cutlery, watches, fancy goods (articles de luxe), wines, spirits, beer and cigarettes.

EXPORTS.—The principal articles of export are opium, wheat, barley, oats, carpets and rugs, tobacco, rice, wool, raw cotton, silk, dried fruits, shells, hides and skins, various gums and drugs, rose water, wood, turquoises, butter, salt, alum, curios, henna (a dye stuff from the plant lawsonia inermis, cultivated in the districts of Yezd and Kerman).

PORTS.—The principal Persian ports in the South with agencies of the companies who run steamers to and from the Persian Gulf are Bander Abbas, Lingah, Bushire and Muhammerah. The tonnage entering these ports is principally British, only one-tenth being under alien flags. At Bander Abbas goods are landed for the markets and centres of distribution of Kerman, Yezd and Meshed: goods from Bushire go to Shiraz, Ispahan, Yezd and Teheran; Muhammerah, on the Shatt el Arab, below Basrah, supplies Arabistan (Shushter and Dizful), and Isfahan; the districts lying between the line Shiraz to Kerman and the Gulf are supplied from Bander Abbas, Lingah and Bushire. The principal Persian ports in the North (on the Caspian) are Astara, Enzeli, Meshed-Sar. Bender Gez-Astara supplies Tabriz and the districts between; Enzeli (the port of Resht) supplies Ghilan, Kazvin and Teheran; Meshed-Sar, the province of Mazandaran and Teheran; Bender Gez the districts near Astrabad and part of Khorasan. Ali the shipping on the Caspian is under the Russian flag.

Companies and firms running steamers on above routes: London to Persian Gulf, the British India Steam Lines; F. C. Strick & Co.; steamers of the Hall Line; steamers of the Clan Line; steamers of Bucknall Brothers.

Black Sea: Messageries Maritimes (Marseilles); Paquet et Cie.(Marseilles); Austrian Lloyd(Trieste); Società Nazionale di Servizi Marittimi (Genoa), for Trebizonde and Batoum, where agents; The Black Sea Steam Navigation Co. for all Black Sea ports, where agents.

Caspian: Compagnie Mercure et Caucase, for all Caspian ports; Toumaniantz frères, Baku.

KERMAN, capital of the province of the same name, 300 miles from Bunder Abbas; population about 46,000; noted for its carpets.

British Consul, Capt. D. L. R. Lorimer; Nasrullah Khan (honorary vice).

KERMANSHAH, capital of the province of Kermanshah, population about 60,000, is the entrepôt for all goods entering Persia from Baghdad coming from England and India via the Persian Gulf and the Tigris. Is seat of customs house, under Belgian director, with branch at Kasr-i-Shirin, on the frontier. It is practically the only route available for Western Persia, now that the Luristan road can no longer be relied upon, supplying such districts as Kurdistan, Hamadan, Irak and the north of Luristan, and even competing seriously with the trade of the European merchants in Ispahan.

The imports viâ Turkey to Kermanshah 1912-13 amounted to £962,833; the exports viâ Baghdad 1912-13 amounted to £302,087.

The imports consist chiefly of Belgian sugar, mexicans, blue cloths, tea, chintz, T cloths, silk goods, woollen twills and pepper; whilst exports consist of carpets, katira (gum tragacanth), skins, wool, dried fruits, opium &c.

The greater part of business done in Kermanshah is on commission for Hamadan or Baghdad merchants. The entrepôt for all goods entering &c. is Hamadan.

MOHAMMERAH, on Karun river, 1 mile from its confluence with Shatt-al-Arab or Basrah River, has a population of about 12,000. A steadily growing port, and is the proposed terminus for the Mohammerah-Khurramabad railway for which the option has been granted to a British company. Principal exports are dates, wheat, oil seeds, gum insoluble, wool and bugloss, grown in Persian Arabia; total value, 1911-12, £464,174. Principal imports are piece goods from Manchester and India, and sugars from Marseilles and Austria-Hungary; total value, 1911-12, £659,420. The British India S. N. Co. have a fast and a slow mail service, each calling weekly, the latter touching at all ports of the gulf, and those of Bombay and Persia S. N. Co. and Arab Steamship Co. Ltd. call occasionally. From England steamers of The Anglo-Algerian Steamship Co. (1896) Ltd. (agents, Messrs. Strick, Scott & Co. Ltd.) and Bucknall Brothers and West Hartlepool S. N. Co. have regular service; also Hamburg-Amerika monthly. Owing to material for the Baghdad Railway the Hamburg-Amerika are now calling two or three times a month. The Tigris-Euphrates S. N. Co. Karun Extension, runs a steamer weekly with cargo and passengers for Nasiri (for Ahwaz); there is also a Persian steamer of the Nasiri Company. Trade nearly entirely with Great Britain and Bombay. The former is partly by road with Ispahan from Nasiri (Ahwaz) on the Karun, where Messrs. Lynch Brothers are agents for the Road Transport Company. The majority of the exports arrive from Bandar Nasiri for transhipment to London. Local exports, dates to India and grain to gulf ports. Nine miles S. of Mohammerah, on the left bank of the Shatt-al-Arab, is the oil refinery of the Anglo-Persian Oil Co. Ltd. It is connected by a pipe line with the oilfields 140 miles distant in the Bakhtian country.

SIAM

THE kingdom of Siam consists of an estimated area of about 195,000 square miles; the population, according to the latest estimates, is about 6¾ millions. Some 680 miles of railways are in working order; the greatest importance is also attached by the government to irrigation works. The foreign commerce is carried on exclusively at Bangkok, and is chiefly in the hands of the British, Germans, and the Chinese. There is, however, in addition to the Bangkok trade, a very considerable direct trade carried on by the Provinces and States of the Malay Peninsula with the British ports of Rangoon, Mergui, Penang and Singapore, amounting to some £900,000 a year; that of the Me Kong Valley with Cambodia and French Cochin China, which is prevented from growing by the tariffs imposed in French territory, and that of the Northern Lao States with British Burmah, which shows a steady increase.

An important item in the trade of Siam is the teak industry.

Gold is being worked in small quantities throughout Siam, though the production is almost negligible, being estimated at not more than 500 ounces; there are also ruby mines behind Chantaboon.

The Siamese Minister in London is Phya Sudham Maitri, 23 Ashburn place S W.

The British Minister and Consul-General at Bangkok is Arthur Robert Peel esq.

The Siamese Consul-General in London is Sir John Anderson, 5 Whittington avenue E C.

BANGKOK, the capital, has a population of 628,675 (1909); it is situated on the Menam river, about 23 miles from the sea. The river is deep, and free from shoals, but there is a mud bar at its mouth, which can scarcely be cleared by vessels drawing 12 feet of water, 14 feet at spring tides. Is also the centre of a large agricultural district, of which the chief product is rice (83·6 % of the total export). The principal industries are rice milling, teak saw milling, ship and boat building and engineering.

The value of the principal exports from Bangkok in 1911-12 was:—Rice, £4,989,458; treasure, £65,129; teak, £463,182; marine products, £168,760; bullocks, £43,810; pepper, £69,808; woods, other than teak, £28,576; hides, £114,730; silk piece goods, £77,765; silk, raw, £28,569; horns, £16,690; swine, £14,725; other articles, £332,439; total, £6,413,641.

The value of the principal imports in 1911-12 was:—Treasure, £373,590; cotton goods, £1,030,958; cotton yarn, £115,073; opium, £232,582; silks, £287,594; gunny bags £91,94 ; petroleum, £134,435; sugar, £2 9,558; hardware and cutlery, £8 ,962; chemical products & drugs, £88,560; tobacco, £90,765; provisions, £501,315; oils, £95,501; iron, steel and machinery, £296,383; jewellery, £185,704; beer, wines & spirits, £109,218; other articles, £1,559,058; total, £5,542,561.

There entered in the foreign trade of the port of Bangkok in 1911-12, 758 vessels of 647,390 tons.

CHIENGMAI, the capital of the province of that name, is situated some 600 miles up country; it is the centre of a considerable trade by boat up the Mé Ping with Bangkok, by land with Moulmein via (1) Raheng and (2) the Salween routes from Yinbaing and Papun, and by the Haw Chinese caravans with Yunnan and the Sipsong-Panna country round Keng-Hung. The principal imports are white and grey shirtings, chowls, T-cloth, Manchester and Bombay yarns, salt, kerosene, hardware, opium, silks and general merchandise; and exports, teak, sticklac, hides, horns, cattle &c. This town is now in telegraphic and weekly postal communication with Bangkok; also fortnightly postal communication with Kengtung (British Southern Shan States).

The chief export from Chiengmai to Bangkok via Mé Ping is teak, and to Burma from the Western Division is teak, via the Salween River.

Distance from Bangkok to Chiengmai by boat, rainy season, 40 days; dry season, 60 days; Chiengmai to Paknampho 10 days, thence to Bangkok by rail one day; dry season, to Paknampho 20 days. The State Railway is now open from Bangkok to Ban Dene Chai, 14 miles south of Phre, and the journey from Bangkok to Chiengmai can now be done in 12 days or less. Mails now take 10 days from Bangkok to Chiengmai, the State railway being utilised as far as 14 miles south of Phre, and thence the mail comes overland via Lakhon. Six weeks from London to Chiengmai via Moulmein, Burma; Chiengmai to Moulmein, overland 15 days.

AFRICA

ETHIOPIA (ABYSSINIA)

THE kingdom of Abyssinia is situated in the north-east of Africa. It is principally composed of a large tract of highlands. A railway has been constructed from Djibouti in French Somaliland to Diré-Daoua, and most of the exports of Abyssinia go by that route: hence all merchandise must be transported by camels, mules or donkeys. The country produces ivory, wax, hides, coffee, cotton, musk, honey and tobacco. The imports from Europe consist principally of cotton goods, jute, silk, glassware, soap, matches; and from India, rice, jowaree, flour and cotton goods.

H.B.M. Envoy Extr., Min. Plen. & Consul-General: Hon. Wilfred Gilbert Thesiger D.S.O.

ADIS ABABA, the capital of Ethiopia, is situated 430 kilometres from Harar, and is an important centre for trade. The imports consist principally of cotton goods, cotton yarns and cutlery. The exports are coffee, skins, ivory, civet, wax &c. Population (fluctuating), about 50,000.

MOROCCO

THE boundaries of this State being undetermined, its area cannot be given, but it is usually estimated at 219,000 square miles. The population is stated at 6,000,000. Fez, the capital, has about 100,000 inhabitants.

The principal ports are Tangier and Casablanca (Dar-al-Baida), the others, Laraiche, Rabat, Mazagan, Saffi, Mogador and Tetuan.

The country has no factories; its industries are pastoral and agricultural.

The principal articles of import are tissues, sugar and tea, raw silks, woollens and iron goods. The exports are principally oxen, also wool, skins, pulse and maize, almonds, olive oil, gum, esparto, ostrich feathers, wax and slippers.

The leather industry is very extensive, and largely represented in the making of saddles and purses. Morocco exports shoes to the value of about a million francs, chiefly to the other countries of North Africa and the East.

The Export and Import trade of Morocco during 1911 amounted to £8,719,353.

TUNIS

THE territory of Tunis covers about 51,000 square miles, with a population estimated according to the latest computation at 1,900,000.

There are several good ports of recent construction: Tunis (by canal), Bizerta (by canal), Susa and Sfax, at all of which vessels can draw up alongside quays; also Monastir, Mehdia (anchorage not good), Djerba, Gabes, Tabarca and Gallippia.

The principal articles of export are cereals, dates, olive oil, animals, fish, ores, phosphates, tanning, bark, silk goods and zinc.

An important article of export is esparto grass, which grows in large quantities in the southern districts.

The Export and Import trade of Tunis during 1912 amounted to Francs 310,740,775.

LA GOULETTE is the old harbour of Tunis, separated from Tunis by the lake of Bahira and connected by an electric railway of 10 kilomètres across the lake. There is a safe anchorage here for the vessels, having a depth of 45 feet. Since 1893 a canal has been made, reaching Tunis, across the Lake Behira, having a depth of 6 metres. Steamers do not stop at La Goulette, but go direct to Tunis to discharge their goods. Iron ores are shipped here. La Goulette, nevertheless, is a watering place of the first order, and its sand plain extends to Carthage. Between La Goulette and Carthage there are two stations much frequented, viz. Kheredine and Kram. Population, 6,000 (20,000 during the season).

SFAX.—The population of the town is 80,000. A port has been formed permitting large steamers to come alongside quays close to the town. The railway to Gafsa is now open. The Compagnie des Phosphates and du Chemin de Fer de Gafsa brings down about 1,000,000 tons of phosphates annually, which greatly increases the shipping of the port and attendant industries. This railway goes about 250 miles inland to the mines at Gafsa, Metlaoui.

Sfax is the centre of a large coasting trade, in which an immense number of small craft are engaged, and it is the headquarters of numerous sponge and other fishing industries.

Exports.—Sponges, esparto, cords made of esparto, olive oil, dates, wool and almonds, wheat, barley, cummin, dried cuttle fish, olive marc, common soap, hides, phosphates &c.

Imports.—Manufactured goods, groceries, iron, coal, bags, cordage, tinplates, glass, earthenware, boat building materials &c.

SUSA. Population, 35,000. Two trains a day run each way between Susa and Tunis, taking five hours; also two trains a day to Susa, Kairouan, and the mines of Ain Moulares (300 kilomètres); and two trains a day between Susa and Medhia taking three hours and a half, but touching several villages. The new port of Susa was opened in 1899. Italian postal steamers run weekly from Italy to Malta, Tripoli, Gerba, Gabes, Sfax, Mehdia, Monastir, Susa and Tunis, and then to Italian ports, and vice versâ. The French Touache Company's mail steamers run weekly from Marseilles to Tunis, Susa, Monastir, Mehdia, Sfax, Gabes, Gerba and Tripoli, and vice versâ. The French Transatlantique Company's steamers run weekly from Marseilles to Tunis, Sfax, Susa, Tunis, and back to Marseilles. Italian schooners ply between Susa and the Italian ports and Tunisian coasters trade along the coast of the Regency. British steamers come in ballast from Continental ports and load esparto, barley, and phosphates for England.

The principal exports are olive oil, esparto grass, wheat, barley, soap, wool, hides, lead, zinc ore and phosphates.

Several steam and hydraulic mills make refined olive oil, while a very large establishment uses up the olive marc of the entire district, making neutral oil, also soap. New large flour mills have been put up.

CENTRAL AMERICA

GUATEMALA

THE Republic of Guatemala is situated on the Pacific and Atlantic coasts of Central America. It has an estimated area of 47,810 square miles, with 185 kiloms. of coast on the Atlantic and 260 kiloms. on the Pacific, and the population in December 1910 was estimated to be 1,992,000, two-thirds of whom are Indians. The capital is Guatemala. Other important cities are Quezaltenago, Antigua, Coban, San Marcos and Chiquimula. A railway connects the capital with the port of San José on the Pacific, and a railway connects it with Port Barrios, called formerly Santa Tomas, in the bay of Honduras. The seaports on the Pacific coast are San José, Champerico and Ocós and those on the Atlantic coast are Atlantic, Livingston and Port Barrios.

The exports consist chiefly of coffee, cane sugar, cocoa and bananas; gold, silver, iron, copper, lead, marble, gypsum, rubber, sulphur and salt, the natural products of the country, and wheat, oats, barley, Indian corn and beans. Large quantities of excellent lumber are to be found in the virgin forests all over the Republic. In the forests near the coast may be found mahogany, cedar, walnut, ebony and many other fine and hard woods; cypress, pine and oak in the mountains. Logwood abounds in the department of Peten.

The principal German companies owning large coffee estates in Guatemala are the following: Plantagen Gesellschaft Concepcion at Hamburg, Hanseatische Plantagen Ges. Guatemala, Hamburg; Osuna Rochela Plantagen Ges. at Hamburg; Guatemala Plantagen Ges. at Hamburg; Chocola Plantagen Ges. at Hamburg

British Minister Resident and Consul-General, C. Alban Young, M.V.O. (at Guatemala).

Chargé d'Affaires and Consul-General in London, Señor Don José Maria Lardizábal, 11 Queen Victoria street E C.

SALVADOR

THE area of this Republic is 7,230 English square miles and the population (1901), 1,006,848. It only possesses a coast line on the Pacific.

The principal exports are coffee, indigo, sugar, gold and silver ore. The principal imports are cotton goods, drugs, hardware, flour and yarn.

British Minister and Consul-General, C. Alban Young, M.V.O. (who is also accredited to and residing in Guatemala).
Chargé d'Affaires and Consul-General in London, Doctor Don Arturo R. Avila, 8 Union court E.C.
CONSULS.—Birmingham, Fredk. Hickinbotham; Brighton, Francis George Horne; Glasgow, Archibald Craig; Liverpool, Don Nicolas Leiba; Southampton, A. C. Dunlop.

ACAJUTLA, the most important port in the Republic of Salvador; connected by railway with the towns of Sonsonate, Sta. Ana (the coffee centre), and the capital, San Salvador. Direct steamship service to Salina Cruz by steamers of the Salvador Railway Co. The bulk of the exportation from the neighbouring towns is made through this port, principally coffee, balsam, sugar, indigo, hides and deerskins; most of the former goes to San Francisco, New York, Hamburg, Bremen, Genoa and Havre, and the finer grades to London. The town has a population of about 1,500.

NICARAGUA

THE territorial extent of this Republic (the largest of the Central American Republics) is about 50,000 English square miles.

The population in 1906 was estimated to be 600,000, including Indians.

The Republic is so well situated between the two oceans that it has two lines of coast; that on the Atlantic extends from Rio Segovia to the embouchure of the Rio San Juan, with a length of 300 miles. It receives three great rivers —the Rio Segovia or Gracias, the Rio Grande or Bluefield, and the San Juan.

The coast on the Pacific extends from the Bay of Fonseca to Salinas, a length of 200 miles. The Bay of Fonseca, the port of Corinto, of San Juan del Sur, and the Bay of Salinas offer spacious and well-protected shelters to shipping.

The seat of the Government is at Managua, situated on the south of Lake Managua.

The principal Imports are manufactured cotton goods of all kinds, woollen goods, provisions, wines and spirits, flour, barbed wire fencing, drugs, cement, matches, hardware, beer, candles, soap, sewing machines and machinery, sewing thread, coffee bags and galvanized iron roofing.

The principal Exports are coffee, rubber, gold, hides, mahogany, cedar, cattle, bananas &c.

The British Minister and Consul-General is C. Alban Young, M.V.O. (who is also accredited to and residing in Guatemala).

Consul in London, Don F. Eduardo Martinez; Vice-Consul, M. J. Herrmann; office, 19 Eastcheap E.C.

Consul-General in Manchester, Jorge Lacayo.

CONSULS.—Glasgow, T. M. Kelly; Liverpool, Don Ernesto Bermudez; Manchester, Don Constantino Castellón; Nottingham, Max Frank; Vice-Consul at Birmingham, J. Hotchkiss.

HONDURAS

THE Republic of Honduras contains approximately 47,000 English square miles.

The population in 1910 was 553,446. It has a coast line of nearly 400 miles on the Caribbean sea; chief ports, Truxillo, Puerto Cortés, Omoa, Roatan and La Ceiba, but only a small portion on the Gulf of Fonseca on the Pacific side; chief port, Amapala. The country is mountainous, being traversed by the Cordilleras. The products are mahogany, fruit, cattle, cotton, sugar, tobacco, coffee, indigo, sarsaparil a, hides and skins, india-rubber, cedar, fustic, rose and lima wood. Its mineral wealth is great. A railway 57 miles long runs from Puerto Cortés to San Pedro Sula and La Pimienta, which is being joined up with the main railway, connecting the Atlantic with the Pacific. All importations for the capital are done by the port of Amapala on the Pacific side. Trade principally with U. S. America.

British Minister and Consul-General, C. Alban Young, M.V.O. (who is also accredited to and residing in Guatemala).

Consul-General in London, Mark J. Kelly, 7 and 8 Idol lane E.C.

Consul-General in Liverpool, Don Juan Bustillo Rivera.

PANAMÁ

THE Republic of Panamá (established in 1903) extends over the area known as the Isthmus of the same name, and lies between the Caribbean Sea on the North and the Pacific Ocean on the South. Up to 1903 it formed a part of the Confederation known as the Republic of Colombia, and it has but few towns of any importance, the chief being the ports of Colon and Bocas del Toro on the North and that of Panamá on the South. There is a railway between Colon and Panamá 47 miles in length. The area is about 32,000 square miles and the population in 1911 (exclusive of the Canal Zone) was 336,062. The population of the Canal Zone in 1912 was 62,810. The Republic is composed of seven provinces, Bocas del Toro, Coclé, Colon, Chiriqui, Los Santos, Panamá and Veraguas. When the Panama Canal is completed, both Colon and Panamá will become important places, as Colon is only 2,000 miles from New York and 4,000 from Southampton, and the trade of the Pacific Coast of the United States and of the West Coast of South America will necessarily pass through the Canal. The French company established by the late M. Ferdinand de Lesseps sold its interests in the Canal to the United States Government in 1904, and the work on the Canal was restarted on the 1st July of that year. The exports consist of bananas, rubber, coconuts, gold, hides, ivory, nuts and mother of pearl shells.

Under the terms of the treaty between the United States and the Republic of Panamá, the latter has ceded to the former a strip of land 10 miles wide, through which the Canal will pass. The United States have absolute sovereignty in this territory, and have organized a separate government.

The Minister for Panamá in London is Dr. Ramón M. Valdés, 91D, Billiter buildings E C.

The British Minister Resident and Consul-General at Panamá is Sir Claude Coventry Mallet C.M.G.

The Consul in London is Señor Don C. R. Zachrisson, 91D, Billiter buildings E C; Vice-Consul, Henry Ernest George Wolffgang, 1 Fenchurch avenue E C.

The Consul-General for the British Empire is Don Julio A. Orillac, 6 Chapel walks, South Castle st. Liverpool.

CONSULS.—Birmingham, Fredk. Hickinbotham; Brighton, Henry Stagg; Manchester, Fredk. C. Leigh; Southampton, Don Alejandro Ami C.

VICE-CONSULS.—Glasgow, Charles John Cleland; Liverpool, Gaston Regis; Newcastle-on-Tyne, Keith Brooks; Sunderland, S. Peacock; Swansea, A. Rohde.

The Export and Import trade of Panama during the first nine months of 1912 amounted to balboas 8,827,885.

COLON, the Atlantic terminus of the Panamá railway and of the proposed inter-oceanic canal, and one of the most important seaports of the Republic of Panamá.

The population in 1911 was 17,748, consisting of British subjects, principally Jamaicans, Chinese, Spaniards, Italians, French West Indians and Americans.

Regular British lines entering the port are the "Leyland Line" and the Harrison Line, from Liverpool, and the Royal Mail Steam Packet Co. from Southampton and United Fruit Co. coming from New Orleans. The Liverpool lines first mentioned maintain conjointly a weekly direct express service for freight and passengers between Liverpool and Colon, in addition to a tri-monthly service via West Indian ports and Spanish Main. These companies also maintain a service to Mexico and New Orleans. The Royal Mail Steam Packet Co. arrive and depart once a fortnight, calling at Jamaica on the way to New York and at Cartagena, Savanilla, Trinidad, and Barbadoes on the way to Southampton; also Hamburg American Line, from New York; La Veloce (Italian), from Genoa; Cie. Générale Transatlantique (French), from Havre and Cia. Transatlantica (Spanish), from Barcelona.

The local exports consist of cocoanuts, ivory nuts, rubber, hides, gutta-percha, turtle shells, live turtles and balata.

The transit exports from the Pacific Coast of North, Central and South America consist of coffee, cocoa, ivory nuts, cotton, copper ore, lead, india rubber &c. and various articles from San Francisco to New York, wine, canned goods &c.

Lloyd's Agent, D. S. Webster.

MEXICO

THE Mexican Republic is bounded on the north by the United States, on the south by Guatemala, on the east by the Gulf of Mexico and on the west by the Pacific Ocean. The area of the Mexican territory is about 767,000 square miles, or about a quarter of the size of the whole of Europe. The population in 1910 was 15,063,207.

THE MINING INDUSTRY OF MEXICO.

The country is enormously rich in precious metals and minerals, the principal exports of which consist of gold and silver. Most of the gold mines are situated in the State of Sonora and of Lower California, while the principal centres where silver is purchased for export to Great Britain are Pachuca and Oaxaca. In both of these places there are agents who are entrusted with the purchase of ores on behalf of British smelters &c. but the largest buyers and exporters are Germans, who supply the same smelters in Great Britain, as well as others on the Continent and America.

The principal copper mining centres are: the States of Aguascalientes, Durango, Michoacan and Tamaulipas, those possessing the greatest number being Aguascalientes and Michoacan.

The State of Michoacan is the one in which lead is found in great abundance, either nearly pure or else in conjunction with silver.

The output of the lead mines is almost entirely bought up by the large smelters, situated in the States of Aguascalientes, Coahuila, Nuevo Leon and San Luis Potosi, and by them is prepared for export either in the form of silver lead bars or bullion. The exports of lead are consigned to the large smelters in Kansas City and New York, where it is desilverised before it is sent to the European markets.

Coal has been discovered, and is now being worked principally in the State of Coahuilla.

TOBACCO.—The principal centres of production are Cordoba, Tlapacayam, Tepic, Playa Vicente, San Andres Tuxtla and Valle Nacional, and the tobacco is chiefly exported to United States of America and Germany.

COFFEE.—The principal districts where the coffee estates are situated are in the States of Vera Cruz and Oaxaca, most of them within easy distance of a railway or port, whence they can be readily shipped to New York, the principal market and distributing centre for this article. Other exports are rubber, henequen fibre, guayule, timber, vanilla, beans, chicle gum, hides, cattle, sugar, broom root &c.

PETROLEUM.—The development of the oilfields has progressed to such an extent that the position of Mexico has changed from that of an importer to that of an exporter.

Tampico is the centre of the oil district, which comprises about 17,000 square miles. The production of petroleum in 1907 was about 1,000,000 barrels, but in 1911 it had risen to 12,629,319 barrels.

The Mexican Minister in London is Señor Don Bartolomé Carbajal y Rosas, 98 Cromwell road S.W.

The British Minister at Mexico is Sir Lionel Edward Gresley Carden K.C.M.G.

MONTERREY (NUEVO LEON) is the capital of the state and has a population of 81,006 (1910). A large trade is carried on.

In the neighbourhood of Monterrey extensive works for the construction of locomotives, rails, machinery and agricultural implements have been erected. This comprises an investment of £2,000,000. They own various iron and coal mines, therefore are independent of all American coalitions. It is the centre of a rich mining district, whilst there are large smelting works near the town. It is counted the most progressive city in the north of Mexico. Here is a Chamber of Commerce (Camara Nacional de Comercio de Monterrey).

PROGRESO is the principal port of entry in Yucatan, 26 miles N. of Merida. There are sub-custom houses at Isla Mujere, and at Ascension Bay, near Belize. Sisal, or henequen, is the principal export (814,610 bales in 1912), of the value of $29,148,418, and nearly the whole crop goes to U. S. America. Logwood, from the coast of Yucatan, is shipped to Europe, chiefly Great Britain. Chicle (chewing gum), hides, deer skins &c. are exported on a limited scale, and are all sent to the United States, that being the most favourable market. Population, 4,000.

RAILWAYS.—At present there are several lines open for traffic; two connect the capital, Merida, with the adjacent port of Progreso, both having branch lines, the remaining two going south and east, and have their respective termini at Peto and Valladolid; another connects Merida with the city of Campeche.

Lloyd's Agent, Arthur Peirce, at Merida and Progreso (also general agent; correspondence solicited).

PUERTO MEXICO (COATZACOALCOS) is a new harbour built by the Mexican Government in conjunction with the firm of S. Pearson & Son Limited, London, and forms the eastern terminus of the "Mexican Isthmian Route" across the isthmus of Tehuantepec. As such its future progress is assured, as it offers the shortest route for the trade between the east & west coasts of N. and S. America and between Europe and the east of Asia and Australasia, and will be much taken advantage of by shippers when the time saved in shipping and the facilities offered for transhipment are better known. There is now a channel of ample width with a depth of 33 feet over the bar. The port has a continuous line of wharfage on the left bank of the river 3,280 feet long, with seven warehouses, each with a floor area of 40,000 square feet. Cargoes are handled direct to cars by 18 electric cranes, each of 3 tons capacity. An abundant supply of fresh water of excellent quality is provided. Local exports consist principally of hides, coffee, sugar, rubber, dyewoods and hardwoods of various kinds, while local imports are principally lumber, machinery, hardware and coal; but the transhipping trade of the port is developing rapidly (about 400,000 tons last fiscal year) and the Hawaiian islands and much of the San Francisco, Seattle and New York trade has already been secured. Steamship connections between East and West coasts of Canada are now established.

VERA CRUZ.—Population, 50,000 (estimated). The port has a depth of 30 ft. of water, and is the chief commercial port of the Republic. The harbour is adapted for vessels drawing 23 feet, and will eventually be suitable for vessels of 30 feet draught. The total number of vessels entered during 1912 was 696 of 1,956,437 tons.

With regard to British trade it should be realised that Vera Cruz is not only a port of transit for through goods to Mexico and the interior, and that business is not solely confined to commission houses. Vera Cruz is the commercial centre of a considerable area, and business houses carry on a brisk trade in importing direct for the local market, which includes the greater part of the coast.

The total value of the exports during 1911-12 amounted to £8,758,848.

The principal exports from Vera Cruz are coffee, hides and skins, tobacco, manufactured and raw, broom root, sugar, caoutchouc, vanilla, and precious metals.

The total imports during 1911-12 amounted to £6 565,819.

The principal imports are cotton goods, linens, woollens, silks, wine and spirits, glass and stoneware, hardware, metals, including railway material, machinery, paper, drugs, coal &c.

UNITED STATES OF AMERICA

THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA occupy the entire width of the central portion of North America. They are bounded north by New Brunswick, Canada (from which they are separated by the river St. Lawrence and the great lakes), and British Columbia; on the south by Mexico and the Gulf of Mexico; east by the Atlantic; and west by the Pacific Ocean. Including Alaska, the entire area of the United States and territories is 3,756,884 square miles. The total population according to 1910 census is 91,972,266 (excluding dependencies).

The principal Imports into U.S. America consist of coffee, cocoa, tea, sugar, chemicals, fibres, furs and fur skins, hides and skins, fruits, raw and manufactured silk, india rubber, iron and steel goods, oils, tobacco, wines, wool and woollen goods, cotton goods, cotton for manufacturing, tin, jewellery, wood and manufactures thereof, copper and manufactures thereof &c.

The principal Exports from U. S. America consist of cereals, raw cotton, meat, provisions, petroleum, live stock, machines, copper, agricultural implements, timber, tobacco, leather, cotton goods, iron and steel, oil cakes, wood manufactures, chemicals, drugs and dyes, paper, cars, carriages and motor cars, coal, fruits &c.

The progress of the cotton plant in the Southern States of America is interesting. The general impoverishment of the South at the termination of the war, and the lack of labour which was the immediate result thereof, tended to such improvements in the cultivation of the crop, that the average of the yields of cotton is now considerably in excess of the yield previous to the war. For example, the yield of cotton under slave labour was about 3,000,000 bales, while at the present time the yield is nearly five times as much (1913, 14,128,902 bales).
